

Up to the Minute Ideas in Airplanes

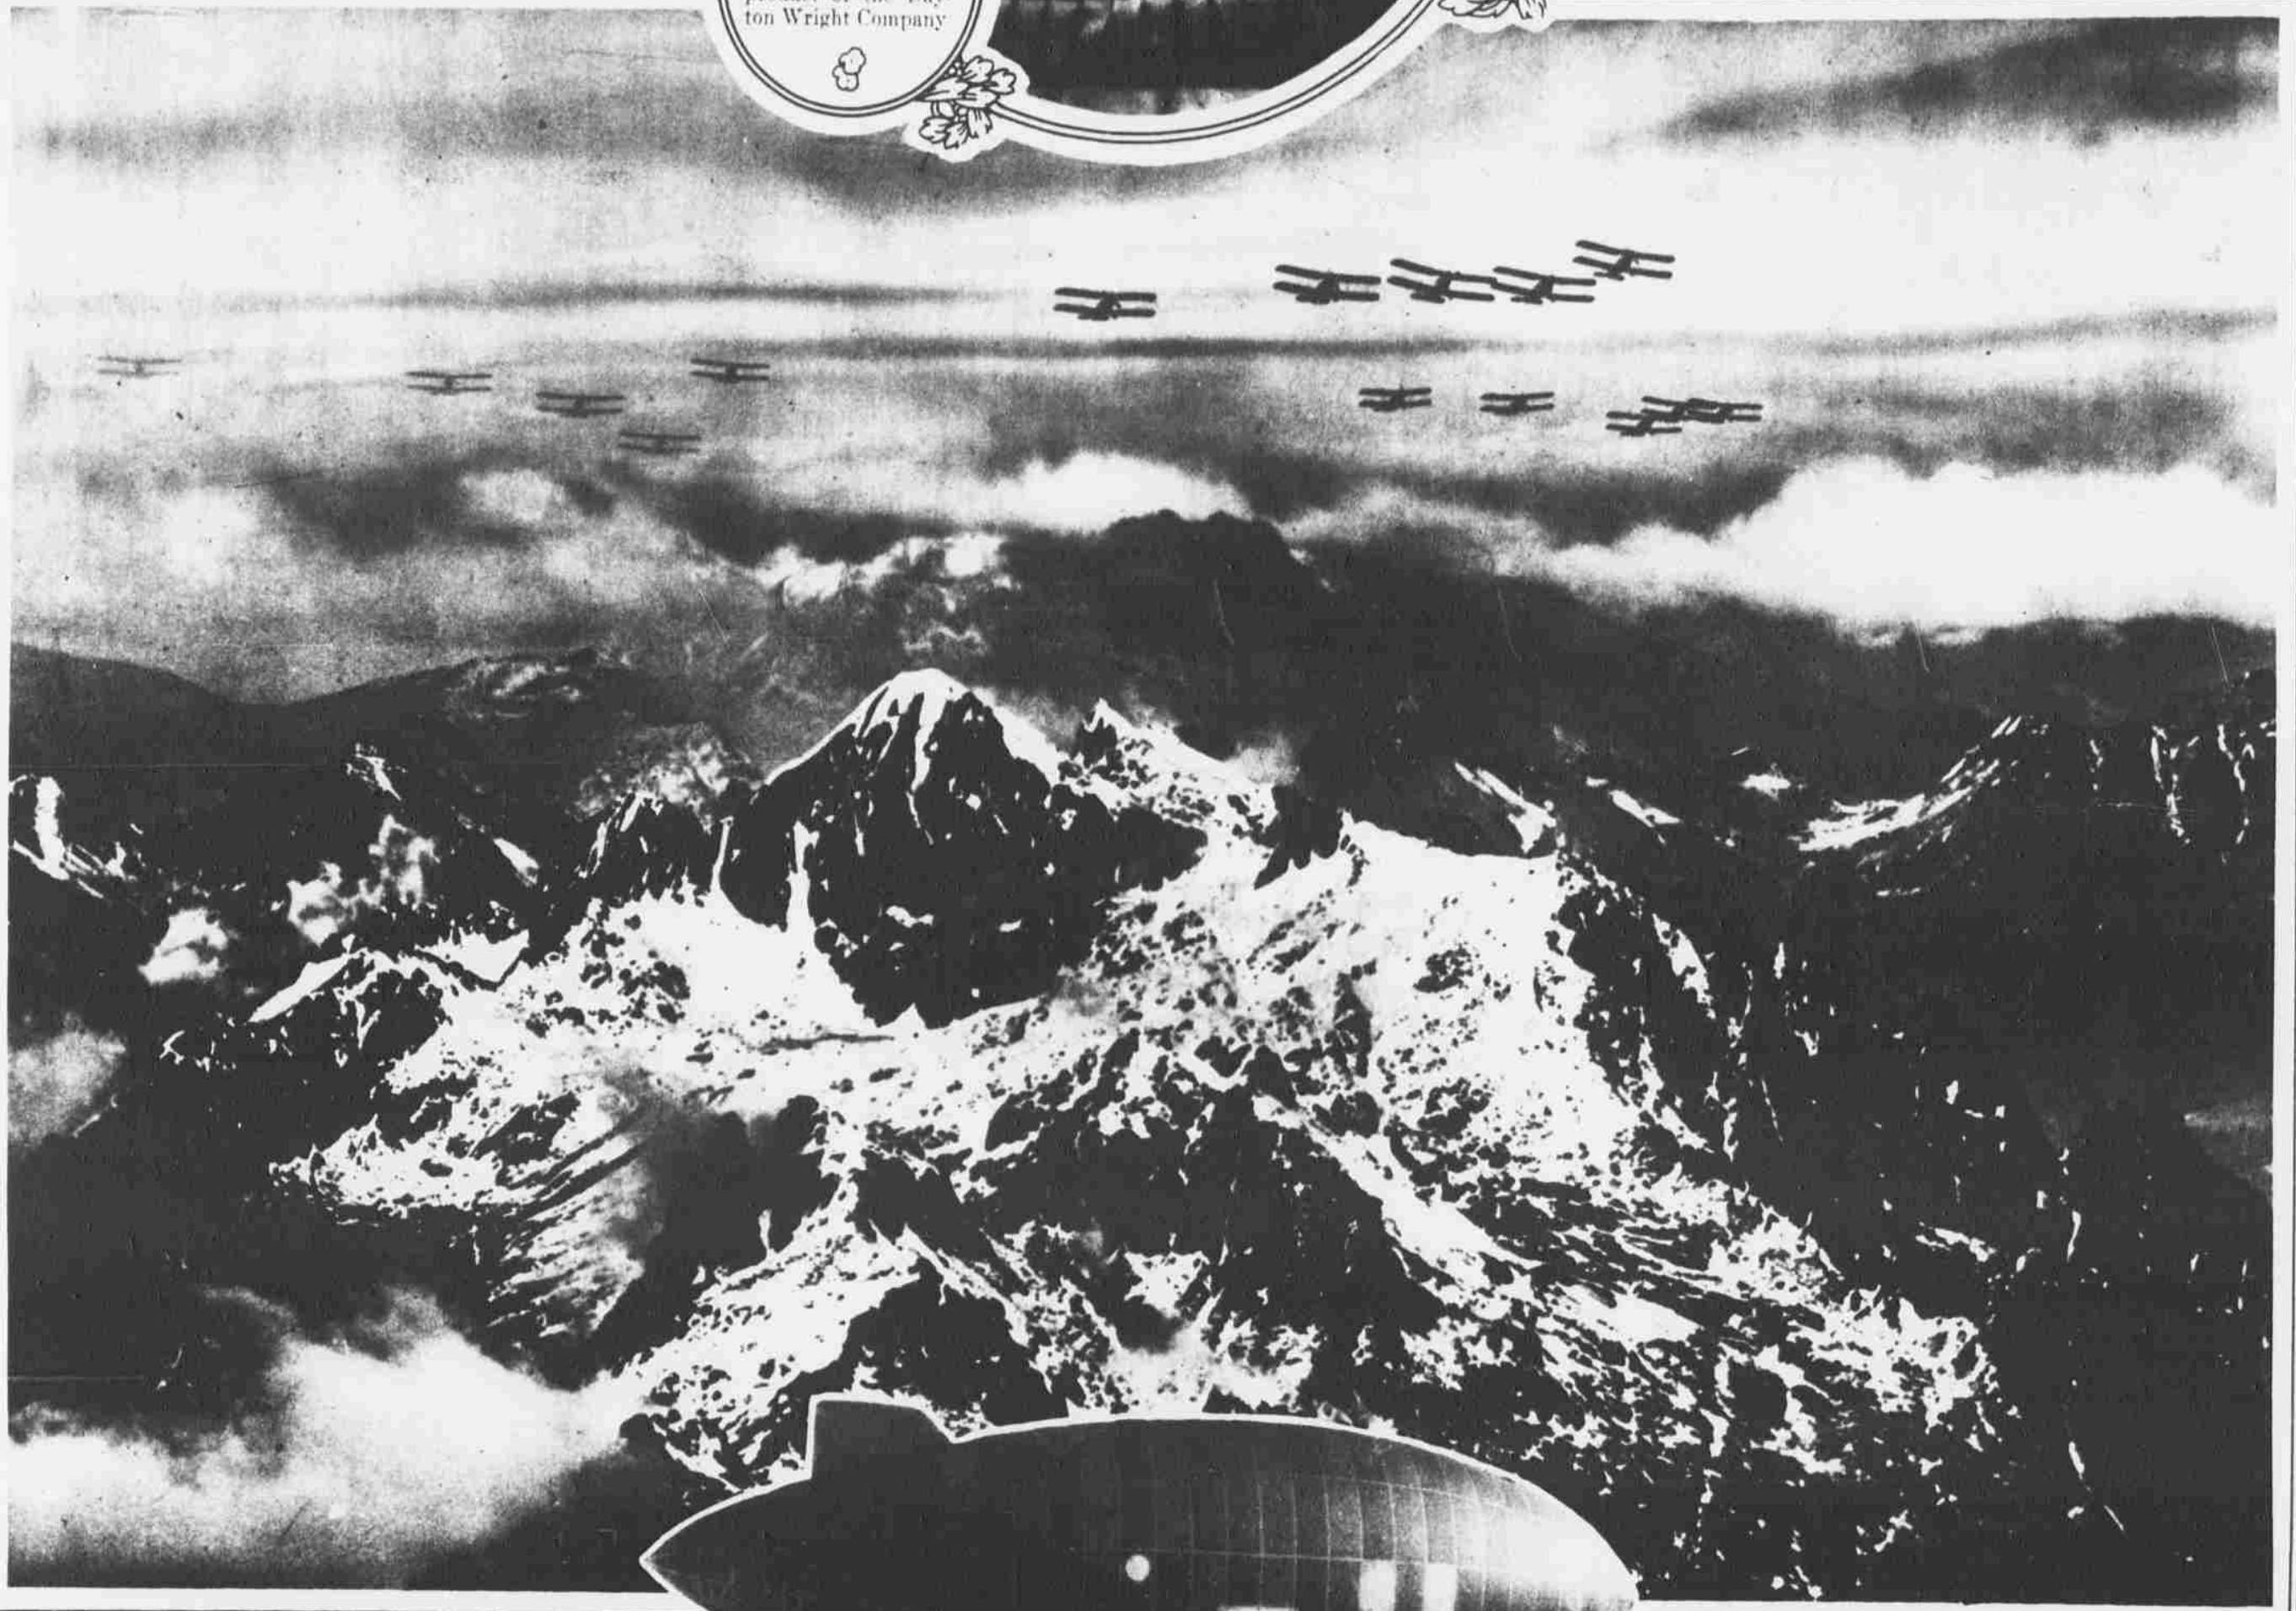

Landing a flying boat on the ice instead of in the water is a delicate task accomplished by Pilot Musie of the Aero-marine Plane and Motor Company of Keyport, N. J.

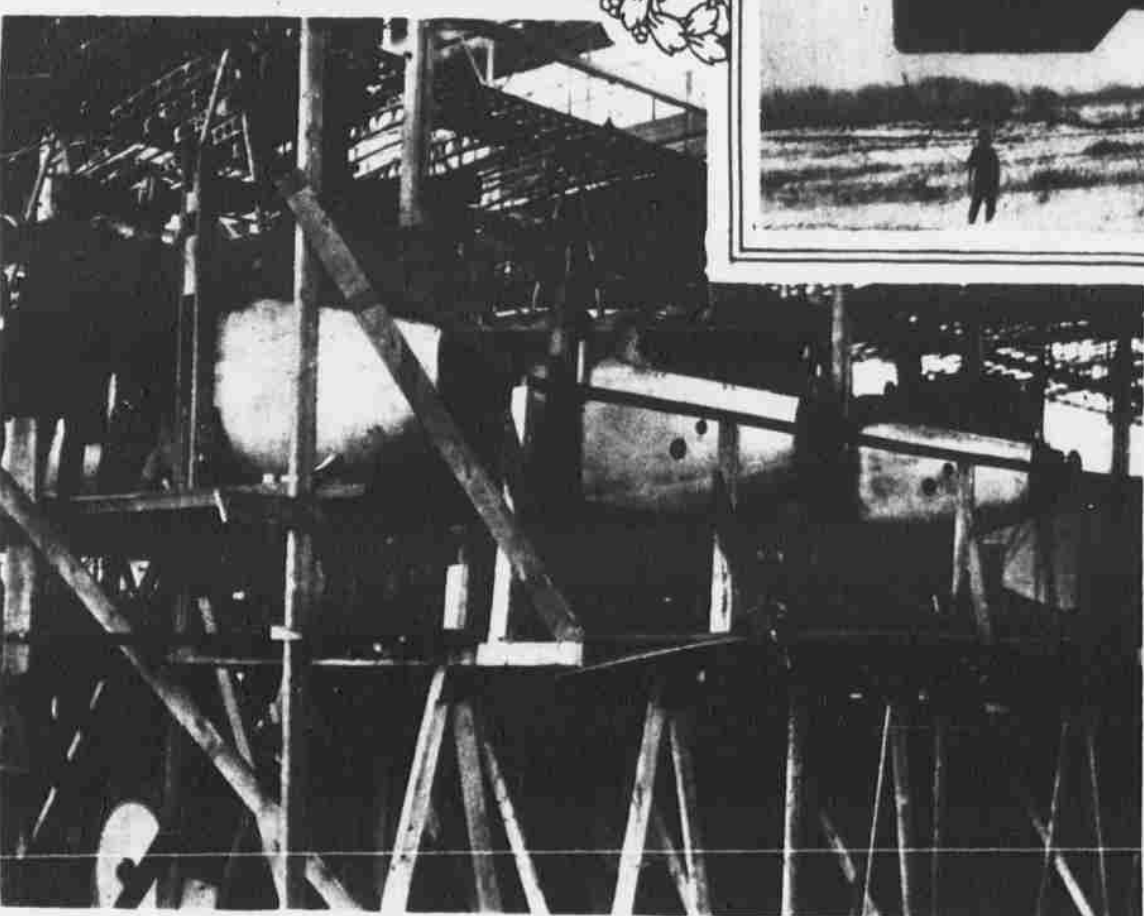

Luxurious interior of Orville Wright's aerial coupé, latest product of the Dayton Wright Company.

This Thomas-Morse transcontinental, which carried 1,500 pounds of mail 600 miles without a stop despite wintry weather, will be a feature at the Aircraft Show in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory.

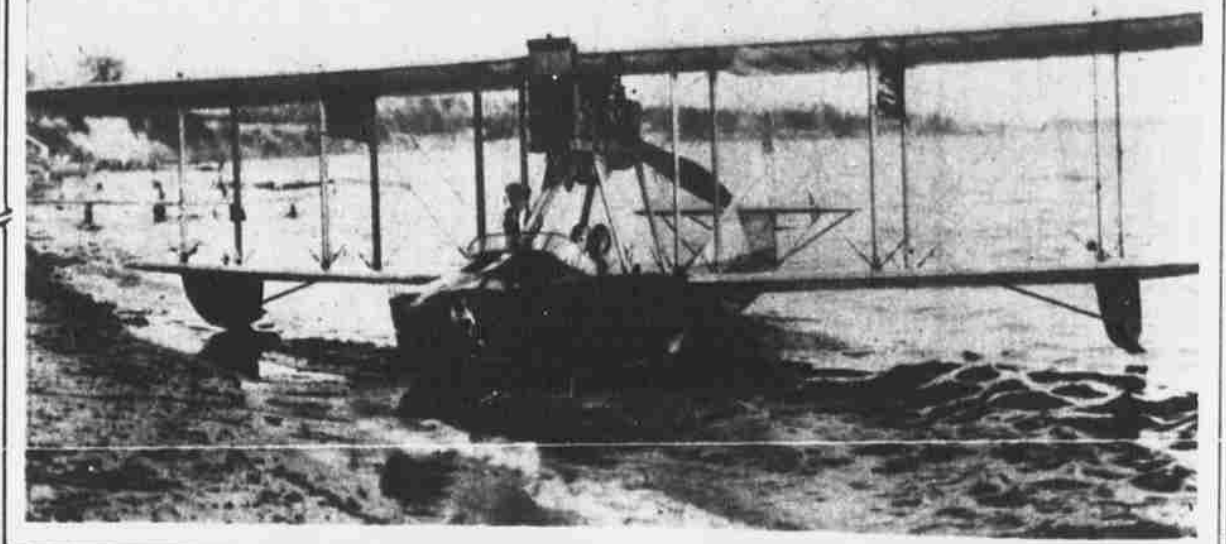

One of the most wonderful and beautiful airplane pictures ever taken: A squadron of Bristol fighters of the British R. A. F. in flight over the Alps on its way to Italy.

Building the largest freight carrying airplane at the L. W. F. Corporation's plant at College Point, L. I. This monster machine has three "boats" and is unique in aircraft production.

Goodyear pony blimp, first commercial civilian dirigible ever built, about to fly to the Aircraft Show.

The Curtiss Sea Gull, latest flying boat model from the famous factory, soon to be seen by the public at the Aircraft Show.